2023 Review of UK Parliament Constituencies Boundary Commission for Scotland Final Recommendations laid before Parliament

The Boundary Commission for Scotland today published its 2023 Review Final Recommendations for United Kingdom Parliament constituencies in Scotland.

The Commission's 2023 Review Report was submitted to the Speaker of the House of Commons and to the Secretary of State for Scotland on 27 June 2023 and laid before the UK Parliament today, 28 June 2023.

Lord Matthews, Deputy Chair of the Boundary Commission for Scotland, said:

"The Commission would like to thank all those who participated in our 2023 Review by responding to our consultations and providing feedback to enable us to develop our Final Recommendations.

We listened carefully to comments made on our proposals during the 2023 Review and made a number of changes to boundaries and to constituency names. We believe our Final Recommendations meet the requirements of the legislation governing the review and within those constraints fairly reflect the views expressed to us during our consultations".

Based on the UK electorate, Scotland was allocated 57 constituencies for the 2023 Review, two fewer than at present. Two of these 57 constituencies are defined in the legislation and were not subject to review (Na h-Eileanan an Iar and Orkney and Shetland). Of the remaining 55, 8 remain unchanged from existing arrangements.

The UK Government is now required within a four month period to submit to the Privy Council an Order that gives effect to recommendations of the four UK Commissions. In drawing up that Order, the Government may not modify any of the recommendations made, unless specifically requested to do so by the relevant Commission. After the Privy Council approves the Order, the new constituencies will take effect at the next General Election.

Information on the 2023 Review, including the final report, maps of the recommended constituencies can be found on the Commission's website: www.bcomm-scotland.independent.gov.uk/

Notes for Editors

The 2023 Review commenced in January 2021.

Based on its share of the UK electorate, Scotland was allocated 57 constituencies for the 2023 Review, two fewer than at present. England was allocated 543 (+10), Northern Ireland 18 (no change) and Wales 32 (-8). This reflects changes in the population across the UK. The UK Parliament has retained 650 constituencies.

Two of Scotland's 57 constituencies are defined in the legislation and were not subject to review (Na h-Eileanan an Iar and Orkney and Shetland).

As set out in legislation, each of the remaining 55 constituencies must:

- not exceed the maximum permitted area of 13,000 square kilometres; and
- be within five per cent of the UK electoral quota of 73,393 (ie to have between 69,724 and 77,062 electors), except where a constituency is larger than 12,000 square kilometres when it may have fewer than the minimum allowed.

Subject to the above requirements, the legislation states that we may take into account, as we think fit, other factors, namely:

- special geographical considerations, including the size, shape and accessibility of a constituency;
- boundaries of existing council areas and electoral wards;
- · existing Westminster constituency boundaries; and
- any local ties which would be broken by changes in constituencies.

The Commission agreed its Final Recommendations after considering responses to public consultations held on its Initial Proposals in 2021 and 2022 and on its Revised Proposals later in 2022. All comments received during these consultation periods can be viewed on our consultation site www.bcs2023review.com/

Of the 55 mainland constituencies recommended by the Commission:

- eight existing constituencies remain unchanged: Ayr, Carrick and Cumnock; Berwickshire, Roxburgh and Selkirk; Central Ayrshire; East Renfrewshire; Kilmarnock and Loudoun; Midlothian; North Ayrshire and Arran; and West Aberdeenshire and Kincardine constituencies.
- The largest recommended constituency by area is Caithness, Sutherland and Easter Ross, at 11,798 square kilometres (previously Ross, Skye and Lochaber at 12,768 square kilometres).
- The smallest recommended constituency by area is Glasgow West, at 19 square kilometres (previously Glasgow North at 17 square kilometres).
- The recommended constituency with the fewest electors, at 69,734, is Glenrothes and Mid Fife (previously Caithness, Sutherland and Easter Ross at 45,898).
- The recommended constituency with most electors, at 77,008, is Stirling and Strathallan (previously Linlithgow and East Falkirk at 83,593).
- 37 of the recommended mainland constituencies are within a single council area; (17 cover two council areas. One covers three council areas).
- 38 of the recommended mainland constituencies are designated as county constituencies and 17 as burgh constituencies.

The Commission designed constituencies by combining or grouping council areas. The recommendations result in one fewer constituency than at present within each of the following council area groupings: Glasgow City, Inverclyde and Renfrewshire Council areas; and Aberdeenshire, Argyll & Bute, Highland and Moray Council areas.

The Boundary Commission for Scotland:

The Boundary Commission for Scotland is an independent advisory non-departmental public body sponsored and funded by the Office of the Secretary of State for Scotland. The role of the Commission is to review the boundaries of constituencies at the UK Parliament.

Background to the 2023 Review:

The 2023 Review of UK Parliamentary constituencies is required by the Parliamentary Constituencies Act 1986 (as amended). The 2023 Review was conducted simultaneously by the four Boundary Commissions in Scotland, England, Northern Ireland and Wales.

The four Boundary Commissions have submitted their final recommendations at the same time.

Across the UK, the number of constituencies is being maintained at 650. In Scotland there will be a decrease from 59 to 57 constituencies. England will have 543 in place of the current 533; Wales 32 in place of the current 40; and Northern Ireland unchanged with 18.

The new constituencies will be available for use in the next General Election.

Further details:

The electoral quota for the review, which is the average electorate per constituency across the UK, is 73,393, with the electorate of each constituency having to be within five per cent of that.

That means the smallest permitted electorate for a constituency is 69,724 and the largest permitted electorate is 77,062. In Scotland, exceptions to these electorate limits apply for Na h-Eileanan an lar constituency (the Western Isles), and Orkney and Shetland constituency, each of which are defined in the legislation. An exception to the minimum electorate requirement can be made if a constituency is larger than 12,000 square kilometres, which can only occur in very sparsely populated areas.

In England, the legislation specifies that the Isle of Wight will have two constituencies and in Wales, Yns Môns (Anglesey) will have a single constituency.

The electorate for this review is taken from the electoral register published on 2 March 2020.

All burgh constituencies cover an area of 107 square kilometres or less. All county constituencies cover an area of 142 square kilometres or more.

The next review must report before 1 July 2031.
